Tropico 5 dlc review

Nathan is a passionate gamer and writer, producing content for Invision since his first year of university more than six years ago. During this time, he reviewed, previewed and edited hundreds of titles from both indie developers and AAA publishers. He has enjoyed watching him grow and grow the site with him over the years, and always strives to make himself better in the future. Previously, Nathan supported new artists, attended a number of major industry events and supported the site administration. His favorite games right now include Age of Empires II and Tom Clancy's Rainbow Six Siege. You can contact me on nathan@invisioncommunity.co.uk Really, the only time I ended up building the expansion buildings was when campaign missions demanded so. Waterborne keeps its narrative focused around the ocean. The storyline flanks references to the Pirate of the Caribbean films, has El Presidents actively working on worsening climate change, and ending with your island throwing off against a thematically-similar-but-legally-clear Captain Planet stand-in. I've long been a fan of the series' approach to his campaign. It's rare for a city builder to have a storyline, and rarer still for one to have a narrative so unapologetically weird. But Waterborne's campaign didn't grab me like the base game's time-travel skirt did. It didn't seem to be coherent or inspired, more like different disparate elements that could have worked together if a little more care had been put into them. That's really what it comes down to. Waterborne lacks the craftsmanship we saw in the base game. In the review copy, the voice-over told by your political advisers was largely lacking, which makes for an oddly quiet experience and loses a lot of the character who has the game. (The music dips when there should be narration, which makes me think it might just be missing from the review copy. The captions it replaces have their share of disturbing typo.) The game has too many flaws, ranging from the slightly hilarious to the absolutely infuriating. The worst made it impossible to pass the final card without rebooting the mission several times. Nothing that is game-breaking, but something that should have been noticed and fixed long before this point. In the end, there's not a lot to say about Waterborne. This is the video game equivalent of dry toast. Yes, it's better than nothing. Yes, it's technically edible. But that's not the kind of thing you'd ever recommend to anyone. And you can't help but think that they haven't at least tried to put jam on this? In: Tropico 5, DLC (Tropico 5) Comments Part Tropico 5 DLC (Tropico 5) Community Content is available under CC-BY-SA unless otherwise noted. What DLC has the most valuable content? I just want to make sure I get my money's worth. Page 2Posted byu/[deleted]5 years ago 12 comments 5 has seen 10 DLCs released since it took base game release back in May 2014. Luckily it's included in the complete collection and working so flawless you'd think they were part of the base game. Since the release of Tropico 6 you can now find many of these DLCs at a very reasonable price too. Addons: Tropico 5: The Big Cheese - The Big Cheese introduces the ice cream and lets players use their goats and llamas well. The suit also includes a new scenario that challenges El Presidents to create the best cheese in the world. Tropico 5: Crazy World - It adds a new scenario called madness as well as a new map, St Dimpna and a new music track. You can also wear the serious looking funnel hat and access to a new building, the Asylum, a health care building providing minimal health care and reducing the effects of discredit. Tropico 5: Generalissimo - Adds a new standalone scenario 'Generalissimo' where players must use both propaganda and show their military power to head off invasions of foreign power. A new Defense HQ building adds elite commando crews, the general hat for El Presidents to show off its military finesse, and a new sandbox map 'Madre de Dios' as well as a new music track. Tropico 5: Joint Venture - A nice little addition addition of a new fast food joint that offers entertainment to citizens and tourists alike. A new scenario 'Joint Venture' as well as a new music track and sandbox map 'Punta de Refugio' and the wonderful hair-do shown below. Purchase Joint Venture Tropico 5: Surfs Up! – Add a new scenario where the goal is to save dolphins, a new dolphin building to provide entertainment to tourists on the island, a diving mask for the Presidents as well as the new sandbox card 'Qualichi'Tropico 5: Gone Green - Includes a new scenario Catch the toucan, a new green energy source, the wind farm and a hippie haircut that should never be seen on a dictator New voice recordings and music and ultimately a new map 'Isabella', complete the add-onTropico 5: Super Villain - Ditch the famous title of the dictator and become the worlds most famous super! Include a new scenario 'Supervillain', the building no supervillain can be without! 'The Giant Laser', a villainous moustache for Presidents, as well as new music tracks and a new sandbox map 'Isla del Pescado'Tropico 5: Inquisition - New standalone scenario: 'Tropican Redemption' - Banish the cults from your island and lift Tropi The new Inquisition building makes spying and discovery roles easier than ever before! A new Inquisitor's hat for El Presidente and a new sandbox card 'Isla del Ray' as well as a new music track. Tropico 5: Supercomputer – Use the new supercomputer to do super important tasks, such as play chess with the Russian government. New standalone scenario 'Supercomputer' as well as a supercomputer building that generates research points faster than anything else in the game. Also add a new music track and the 'Cobao' map. Tropico 5: T-Day - Shooting greatest movie of all time with the T-Day scenario. Build a fortress to defend defending Island. Don the big war helmet, and eventually play the new map 'Becouya' DLCs Tropico 5: Espionage - The DLCs add new campaigns as well as new buildings and features and generally have a lot more in them than the addons. Espionage includes the following: New campaign and exciting story spanning 6 provocative missions9 new spy and military-themed buildings4 new island maps (also available for sandbox games) - e.g. 'Dos Torres', 'Grito Grande'4 new music tracks4 new avatar costumes – eg. 'Evening Gown' (female), 'Tuxedo' (male)6 new avatar accessories - eg. 'Spy' (hat), 'Long Curls' (hair)New sandbox tasks and events to deal with the new 'espionage' neighborhood Tropico 5: Waterborne Waterborne sees the Tropican's take to the sea expanding the buildings out to sea with floating apartments, glass lower restaurants, offshore offices and more. Waterborne includes: New campaign and story spanning 6 challenging missions9 new off-shore buildings and marine vehicles4 new island maps (also available for sandbox games)4 new music tracks2 new avatar costumes6 new avatar accessoriesNew sandbox tasks and events to deal with the waterborne environment Tropico 6: Since we originally created this post, Tropico 6 has now been released, adding a multitude of new features and improved graphics by walking on the Unreal engine. As well as the new features and improved graphics in Tropico 6, there are also some of the older features that fans loved that were brought back into the game. Tropico 6 has several new DLCs to further increase the buildings, features and fun that Tropico brings. Tropico 6 DLC: If you're considering Tropico 6, why not take a look at some of the new DLC that came out with it. Maybe your complaint not to the hardware requirements; maybe you bought a game by mistake; maybe you played the title for an hour and just didn't like it. It doesn't matter. Valve will be added to via help.steampowered.com, issue a refund for any reason, if the request is made within the required return period, and in the case of games, if the title has been played for less than two hours. There are more details below, but even if you fall outside the refund rules we've described, you can ask for a refund anyway and we'll be watching. You will be issued a full refund of your purchase within a week of approval. You will receive the refund in Steam Wallet funds or through the same payment method you use to make the purchase. If, for any reason, Steam can't issue a refund via your initial payment method, your Steam Fair will be credited the full amount. (Some payment methods available through Steam in your country may not support refunding a purchase to the original payment method. Click here for a full list.) The Steam refund offer, within two weeks of purchase and with less than two hours of playtime, applies to games and software apps in the Steam store. Here's an overview of how refunds work with other types of purchases. Refunds on downloadable content (Steam store content usable within another game or software application, DLC) DLC purchased from the Steam store are refundable within fourteen days of purchase, and if the underlying title has been played for less than two hours since the DLC was purchased, as long as the DLC has not been consumed, changed, or transferred. Please note that in some cases, Steam cannot give refunds for some third-party DLC (for example, if the DLC irreversible levels a game character). These exceptions will be clearly marked as non-refundable on the Store page before the purchase. Refunds on in-game purchases Steam will offer refund for in-game purchases within any Valve-developed games within forty-eight hours of the purchase, as long as the in-game item is not consumed, changed or transferred. Third-party developers will have the option to enable refunds for in-game items on these terms. Steam will tell you at the time the purchase if the game developer chose to offer refunds on the in-game item you are buying. Otherwise, in-game purchases in non-Valve games are non-refundable by Steam. Refunds on Pre-purchased titles When you purchase a title on Steam in advance (and paid in advance for the title), you can request a refund at any time before the release of that title. The standard 14-day/two-hour refund period also applies, starting on the game's release date. Steam Wallet Refunds You can request a refund for Steam Wallet funds within fourteen days of purchase if they were purchased on Steam and if you don't use any of those funds. Renewable subscriptions For some content and services provide steam periodical (e.g. monthly, access you pay for on a recurring basis. If a renewable subscription was not used during the current billing cycle, you can make a refund within 48 hours of the initial purchase or within 48 hours of any automatic automatic Content is considered if any games were played within the subscription during the current billing cycle or if any benefits or discounts included in the subscription were used, consumed, modified or transferred. Please note that you can cancel an active subscription at any time by going to your account details. Once canceled, your subscription will no longer automatically renew, but you will retain access to the content and benefits of the subscription through the end of your current billing cycle. Steam Hardware Within the appropriate timeframe identified in the Hardware Refund Policy, you can request a refund for Steam Hardware and Accessories purchased for any reason via Steam. You must return the hardware to the instructions we provide to you within fourteen (14) days of the refund. Please see the Hardware Refund Policy for detailed guidelines on the return and cancellation process for Steam Hardware and Accessories. Refunds on batches You can receive a full refund for any batch purchased in the Steam Store, as long as none of the items in the bundle have been transferred, and if the combined usage time for all items in the bundle is less than two hours. If a bundle includes an in-game item or DLC that is non-refundable, Steam will tell you if the entire bundle is refundable during check-out. Purchases made outside of Steam Valve cannot provide refunds for purchases made outside of Steam (for example, CD keys or steam scholarship cards purchased from third parties). VAC Ban If you were banned by VAC (the Valve Anti-Cheat system) on a game, you lose the right to repay that game. Video content We cannot offer refunds for video content on Steam (e.g., movies, shorts, series, episodes, and tutorials), unless the video is in a batch with other (non-video) refundable content. Refunds on Gifts Irrecovered gifts can be refunded within the standard 14-day/two-hour refund period. Redeemed gifts can be refunded under the same conditions if the gift recipient initiates the refund. Funds used to purchase the gift will be returned to the original purchaser. EU Right of Withdrawal For an explanation of how the EU works right on withdrawal for Steam customers, click here. Abuse Refunds are designed to remove the risk of purchasing titles on Steam—not as a way to get free games. If it occurs to us that you are abusing refunds, we may stop offering them to you. We don't consider it abuse to request a refund on a title purchased just before a sale and then immediately rethink that title for the sale price. You can request a refund or get other help with your Steam Purchases at help.steampowered.com. Definitions Wherever we talk about personal data below, we mean any information that you can either identify as an individual (Personally Identifying Information) or which may be indirectly linked to you by linking it to personally identifying information. Valve also processes anonymous data, aggregated or not, to analyze and produce statistics related to the habits, usage patterns, and demographics of customers as a group or as individuals. Such anonymous data does not allow the identification of the clients it relates to. Valve can share anonymous data, aggregated or not, with third parties. Other capitalized provisions in this Privacy Policy will have the meanings defined in the stool subscriber agreement (SSA). 2. Why Valve collects and processes Data Valve collects and processes personal data for the following reasons: a) where it is necessary for the execution of our agreement with you to provide a full game service and provide associated content and services; b) where it is necessary for compliance with legal obligations to which we are subject (e.g., our obligations to keep certain information in terms of tax laws); c) where it is necessary for the purposes of the legal and legal interests of Valve or a third party (e.g., the interests of our other clients), except where such interests are determined by your prevailing legitimate interests and rights; or d) where you have given permission to it. This is for collecting and processing personal data and limiting what personal data we collect and how we use it (section 3. below), how long we store it (section 4. below), what access to it (section 5. below) and what rights and other control mechanisms are available as a user). 3. The types and sources of data we collect 3.1 Basic account data when setting up an account, Valve will collect your email address and country of residence. You are also required to choose a username and a password. Providing this information is necessary to register a Steam User Account. During the setup of your account, the account is automatically assigned a number (the Steam ID) that is later used to reference your user account without directly exposing personal identifying information about you. We do not require that you provide or use your real name for setting up a Steam user account. 3.2 Transaction and Payment data To make a transaction on Steam (e.g., to purchase subscriptions for content and services or to fund your Steam Wallet), you may need to provide payment data to Valve to enable the transaction. If you pay by credit card, you must provide typical credit card information (name, address, credit card number, expiration date and security code) to Valve, which will process Valve and transfer it to the payment service provider of your choice to enable the transaction and perform anti-fraud checks. Similarly, Valve will receive data from your payment service provider for the same reasons. 3.3 Other data that you expressly submit If we will collect and process personal data when you explicitly provide or send it to us as part of communication with others on Steam, e.g. This data includes: Information you post, comment, or follow in any of our content and services; Information sent by chat; Information you provide when requesting information or support from us or buying content and services from us, including information necessary to process your orders with the relevant payments dealer or, in the case of physical goods, shipping providers; Information you provide to us when participating in competitions, competitions and tournaments or responding to recordings, e.g. 3.4 Your use of the Steam Client and websites We collect a variety of information through your general interaction with the websites, content and services offered by Steam. Personal data we collect may include, but is not limited to, browser and device information, data collected through automated electronic interactions and application usage data. Similarly, we will track your process on our websites and applications to verify that you are not a bot and to optimize our services. 3.5 Your Use of Games and other subscriptions To provide services to you, we must have various information about you in our Content and Services. Content-related information includes your Steam ID, as well as what is usually referred to as game statistics. By game stats we mean information about your games' preferences, progress in the games, playtime, as well as information about the device you are using, including which operating system you are using, device settings, unique device identifiers, and crash data. 3.6 Tracking data and cookies We use Cookies, which are text files that are placed on your computer, and similar technologies (e.g., web beacons, pixels, ad tags and device identifiers) to help us analyze how users use our services, as well as improve the services we offer to improve marketing, analytics, or website functionality. The use of cookies is standard on the internet. Although most web browsers automatically accept cookies, the decision to accept or not is yours. You can customize your browser settings to prevent the receipt of cookies, or to provide notification when a cookie is sent to you. You can refuse cookies using by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser. Managing the use of cookies for each browser is further outlined on the following help page: . Note, however, that if you do, you may not be able to access the full functionality of our websites. When you visit any of our services, our servers log your IP address, which is a number that is automatically assigned to the network your computer is part of. 3.7 Content recommendations We may process information collected in terms of this section 3 so that content, products and services displayed on the pages of the Steam store and displayed in update messages when the Steam Client is started can be modified to meet your needs and be populated with relevant recommendations and offers. This is done to improve your customer experience. You can prevent the processing of your data in this way by shutting down the automatic loading of the Steam store page and Steam notifications in the Interface section of the Steam Client Settings. Subject to your separate consent or where explicitly permitted under applicable laws on email marketing, Valve can send you marketing messages about products and services offered to your email address through Valve. In such a case, we can also use your collected information to customize such marketing messages, as well as to gather information about whether you opened such messages and what links in their text you followed. You can withdraw your permission to receive marketing emails at any time by withdrawing the permission on the same page where you previously provided them or unsubscribe on the link provided in each marketing email. 3.8 Information needed to detect violations collect certain data necessary for our detection, investigation and prevention of fraud, fraud and other violations of the SSA and applicable laws This data is used only for the purposes of detection, investigation, prevention and, where applicable, acting on such Offences and stored only for the minimum amount of time required for this purpose. If the data indicates that an offence has occurred, we will further store the data for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims during the applicable statute of limitations or until a legal case related to it has been resolved. Please note that the specific data stored for this purpose may not be disclosed to you if the disclosure examines and prevents the mechanism by which we detect such violations. 4. How long our data stores We will only store your information as long as it is necessary to observe the purposes for which the information is collected and processed or — where applicable law provides for longer storage and retention period — for the storage and retention period required by law. After that, your personal data will be deleted, blocked, or anonymized, as provided by applicable law. In particular: If you terminate your Steam User account, your personal data will be marked for deletion, except to the degree legal requirements or other prevailing legal purposes dictate a longer storage. In some cases, personal data cannot be deleted entirely to ensure the consistency of the gaming experience or the Steam Community Market. For example, matches you've played that affect other players' match data and scores won't be deleted; rather, your connection to these games will be permanently anonymized. Please note that Valve is required to retain certain transactional data under statutory commercial and tax legislation for a period of up to ten (10) years. If you extract permission on which a processing of your personal data or of the personal data of your child is based, we will delete your personal data or the personal data of your child without unnecessary delay, respectively, to the extent that the collection and processing of the personal data is based on the withdrawal consent. If you exercise the right to object to the processing of your personal data, we will review your objection and delete your personal data that we have processed for the purpose on which you objected without unnecessary delay unless another legal basis exists for the processing and retention of this data or unless applicable law requires us to retain the data. 5. Whoever has access to data valve does not sell personal data. However, we can share or provide access to each of the categories of personal data we collect as needed for the following business purposes. 5.1 Valve and its subsidiaries may share your personal data with each other and use it to the degree necessary to achieve the purposes listed in section 2 above. In the event of a reorganization, sale or we may transfer personal data to the third party concerned subject to applicable laws. 5.2 We can also share your personal data with our third-party service providers provide customer service services in connection with goods, content and services distributed via Steam. Your personal data will be used in accordance with this Privacy Policy and only as far as it is necessary to perform customer service services. 5.3 In accordance with Internet standards, we may also share certain information (including your IP address and identifying Steam Content you want to access) with our third-party network providers that provide content delivery network services and game server services in connection with Steam. Our content delivery network providers set the delivery of digital content you requested, e.g. when using Steam, by using a system of distributed servers that deliver the content to you based on your geographic location. 5.4 Google Analytics Our website uses Google Analytics, a web analysis service provided by Google, Inc. (Google). Google Analytics uses cookies to help the website operators analyze how visitors use the site. The information generated by the cookie on the use of the visitors' website will generally be transmitted and stored by Google on servers in the United States. On this site, IP anonymization is enabled. The IP addresses of users visiting Steam will be shortened. Only in exceptional cases will a full IP address be transferred to a Google server in the United States and shortened there. On behalf of the website operator, Google will use this information with the aim of evaluating the website for its users, to essence on website activity reports, and to provide other services related to website activity and Internet use for website operators. Google will not associate the IP address transmitted in the context of Google Analytics with any other data held by Google. You can refuse cookies using by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser. Note, however, that in this case, you may not be able to use the full functionality of this site. You can learn more about how Google Analytics can access data in www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners. Furthermore, you can prevent Google's collection and processing of data about your use of the site by downloading and installing the browser's plug-in by the following link: . 5.5 We make certain data related to your Steam User Account available to other players and our partners through the Steamworks API. This information can be accessed by anyone by inquiring about your Steam ID. At least, the public persona name you chose to represent you on Steam and your Avatar photo is accessible this way, as well as whether you have received a ban for fraud in a multiplayer game. The accessibility of any additional information about you can be controlled by your Steam Community page; data that is publicly available on your profile page can be automatically accessed through the Steamworks API. In addition to the Available information, game developers and publishers have access to certain information from the Steamworks API that is directly related to the users of the games they operate. This information includes if a minimum your ownership of the game in question. Depending on which Steamworks services are implemented in the game, it can also provide ranking information, your progress in the game, performances you've completed, your multiplayer game matchmaking information, in-game items, and other information needed to run the game and provide support for it. For more information about which Steamworks Services implemented a specific game, please review its store page. While we do not knowingly share Personally Identifying information about you through the Steamworks API such as your real name or your email address, any information you share about yourself on your public Steam profile can be accessed through the Steamworks API, including information that can make you identifiable. 5.6 The Steam community includes message boards, forums and/or chat areas where users can exchange ideas and communicate with each other. When posting a message to a board, forum, or chat area, please be aware that the information is being made publicly available online; therefore you do it at your own risk. If your personal data is placed on one of our community forums against your will, please use the reporting feature and the Steam Help website to request its removal. 5.7 Valve may allow you to link your Steam User Account to an account offered by a third party. If you consent to link the accounts, Valve can collect and combine information that allowed you to receive from a third party with information from your Steam User Account to the degree allowed by your consent at the time. If linking the accounts requires the transfer of information about your person from Valve to a third party, you will be informed about it before the liaison takes place and you will have the opportunity to give permission for the linking and the transfer of your information. The third party's use of your information will be subject to the third party's privacy policy, which we encourage you to review. 5.8 Valve may release personal data to comply with court orders or laws and regulations requiring us to disclose such information. 6. Your rights and control mechanisms The data protection laws of the European Economic Area, California, and other areas give their residents certain rights regarding their personal data. While other jurisdictions may provide fewer statutory rights, we make the tools designed to make such rights available to our customers worldwide. To allow you to exercise your data protection rights in a simple way, we provide a dedicated section on the Steam Support page (the Privacy) This gives you access to your personal data, allows you to correct and delete it where necessary and to object to its use where you feel necessary. Feel access it, login to the Steam Support page at and select the menu items My Account -> data related to your Steam account. In most cases, you can access, manage, or delete personal data in the privacy dashboard, but you can also contact valve with questions or requests via the contact processes described in sections 8 and 10 below. As a resident of the European Economic Area, you have the following rights regarding your personal data: 6.1 Right of Access. You have the right to access your personal data that we have about you, i.e. the right to require free (i) information or your personal data is retained, (ii) access to and/or (iii) duplicates of the personal data retained. You can use the right to access your personal data through the privacy dashboard. If the request affects or manifests the rights and freedoms of others, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee (taking into account the administrative costs of providing the information or communication or taking the action requested) or refusing to act on the request. 6.2 Right to Correction. If we process your personal data, we will endeavor to ensure by implementing appropriate measures that your personal data is accurate and up to date for the purposes for which it was collected. If your personal data is inaccurate or incomplete, you can change the information you provided via the Privacy Dashboard. 6.3. Right to erase. You have the right to obtain the deletion of personal data concerning you if the reason we can collect it (see section 2. above) no longer exists or if there is another legal land for its deletion. For individual items of personal data please edit them through the Privacy Dashboard or request the deletion via the Steam Support page. You can also request the deletion of your Steam User Account via the Steam Support page. Due to the removal of your Steam user account, you will lose access to Steam Services, including the Steam User Account, subscriptions, and game-related information linked to the Steam User Account and the possibility of accessing other services for which you use the Steam User Account. We allow you to restore your Steam user account during a 30 (thirty) days grace period from the moment you request the deletion of your Steam user account. With this functionality, you can't lose your account by mistake, due to your loss of your account credentials or because of hacking. During the suspension period, we will be able to finalize financial and other activities you may have initiated before sending the Steam User Account Deletion Request. After the grace period, personal data containing you subject to section 4, deleted subject to section 4. Above. In some cases, deleting your Steam User Account, and thus personal data deletion, is complicated. Namely, if your account has a business relationship with Valve, such as because of your work for a game developer, you have you only be able to remove your Steam user account after you have transferred this role to another user or have resolved the business relationship. In some cases, taking into account the complexity and number of requests, the period for personal data erasure may be extended, but for no more than two further months. 6.4 Right to object. When processing your personal data based on legitimate interests by section 6(1)(f) of GDPR/section 2.c) of this Privacy Policy, you have the right to object to this processing. If you object, we will no longer process your personal data unless there are compelling and prevailing legal grounds for processing as described in article 21 of GDP; in particular if the data is necessary for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims. You also have the right to file a complaint with a supervisory authority. 6.5 Right to limit processing of your personal data You have the right to obtain the limitation of the processing of your personal data under the conditions set out in section 18 of GDPR. 6.6 Right to personal data portability You have the right to receive your personal data in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format and have the right to transfer that data to another controller under the conditions set out in section 20 of GDP. Valve makes your personal data available in structured HTML format through the Privacy Dashboard as described above. 6.7 Right to post-mortem control of your personal data If the French data protection legislation applies to you, you have the right to determine guidelines for the conservation, deletion and the transfer of personal data after your death in accordance with section 40-1 of the Act No 78-17 of 6 January 1978 on information, technology, data files and civil liberties. 7. Children The minimum age to create a Steam user account is 13. Valve will not knowingly collect personal data of children under this age. Over the preceding 12 months, we collected the categories of personal data described in section 3 of this Privacy Policy. The sources from which we collect personal data, and the purposes for which we collect and process them, are described in sections 2 and 3. Over the preceding 12 months, we disclosed for business purposes each of the categories of personal data with the categories of third parties as described in section 5. Review Date: July 28, 2020 Page 8 Valve respects the privacy of its online visitors and customers of its products and services and complies with applicable laws for protecting your privacy, including, without limitation, the California Consumer Privacy Act (CCPA), European Union General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), and the Swiss and EU Privacy Shield frameworks. 1. Definitions Wherever we talk about personal data below, we mean any information that you can either identify as an individual (Personally Identifying Information) or which may be indirectly linked to you by linking it to personally identifying information. Valve also processes anonymous data, aggregated or not, to statistics related to the habits, usage patterns and demographics of clients as a group or as individuals analyze and produce. Such anonymous data does not allow the identification of the clients it relates to. Valve can share, share anonymous data, or not, with third parties. Other capitalized provisions in this Privacy Policy will have the meanings defined in the stool subscriber agreement (SSA). 2. Why Valve collects and processes Data Valve collects and processes personal data for the following reasons: a) where it is necessary for the execution of our agreement with you to provide a full game service and provide associated content and services; b) where it is necessary for compliance with legal obligations to which we are subject (e.g., our obligations to keep certain information in terms of tax laws); c) where it is necessary for the purposes of the legal and legal interests of Valve or a third party (e.g., the interests of our other clients), except where such interests are dominated by your prevailing legitimate interests and rights; or d) where you have given permission to it. These reasons for collecting and processing personal data determine and limit what personal data we collect and how we use them (section 3. below), how long we store it (section 4. below), what access to it (section 5. below) and what rights and other control mechanisms as a user are available to you (section 6. below). 3. The types and sources of data we collect 3.1 Basic account data when setting up an account, Valve will collect your email address and country of residence. You are also required to choose a username and a password. Providing this information is necessary to register a Steam User Account. During the setup of your account, the account is automatically assigned a number (the Steam ID) that is later used to reference your user account without directly exposing personal identifying information about you. We do not require that you provide or use your real name for setting up a Steam user account. 3.2 Transaction and Payment data To make a transaction on Steam (e.g., to purchase subscriptions for content and services or to fund your Steam Wallet), you may need to provide payment data to Valve to enable the transaction. If you pay by credit card, you must provide typical credit card information (name, address, credit card number, expiration date and security code) to Valve, which will process Valve and transfer it to the payment service provider of your choice to enable the transaction and perform anti-fraud checks. Similarly, Valve will receive data from your payment service provider for the same reasons. 3.3 Other data that you expressly submit If we will collect and process personal data when you explicitly provide or send it to us as part of communication with others on Steam, e.g. This data includes: Information you post, comment, or follow in any of our content and services; Information sent by chat; Information you provide when you request information or support from us or purchase content and services from us, including information needed to help you processing the relevant payments dealer or, in the case of physical goods, shipping providers; Information you provide to us when participating in competitions, competitions and tournaments or responding to recordings, e.g. 3.4 Your use of the Steam Client and websites We collect a variety of information through your general interaction with the websites, content and services offered by Steam. Personal data we collect may include, but is not limited to, browser and device information, data collected through automated electronic interactions and application usage data. Similarly, we will track your process on our websites and applications to verify that you are not a bot and to optimize our services. 3.5 Your Use of Games and other subscriptions To provide services to you, we must have various information about your activity in our content and services. Content-related information includes your Steam ID, as well as what is usually referred to as game statistics. By game stats we mean information about your games' preferences, progress in the games, playtime, as well as information about the device you are using, including which operating system you are using, device settings, unique device identifiers, and crash data. 3.6 Tracking data and cookies We use Cookies, which are text files that are placed on your computer, and similar technologies (e.g., web beacons, pixels, ad tags and device identifiers) to help us analyze how users use our services, as well as improve the services we offer to improve marketing, analytics, or website functionality. The use of cookies is standard on the internet. Although most web browsers automatically accept cookies, the decision to accept or not is yours. You can customize your browser settings to prevent the receipt of cookies, or to provide notification when a cookie is sent to you. You can refuse cookies using by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser. Managing the use of cookies for each browser is further outlined on the following help page: . Note, however, that if you do, you may not be able to access the full functionality of our websites. When you visit any of our services, our servers log your IP address, which is a number that is automatically assigned to the network your computer is part of. 3.7 Content recommendations We may process information collected in terms of this section 3 so that content, products and services displayed on the pages of the Steam store and displayed in update messages when the Steam Client is started can be modified to meet your needs and be populated with relevant recommendations and offers. This is done to improve your customer experience. You can process your data in this way by shutting down the automatic charging of the Steam store page and Steam notifications in the Interface section of the Steam client Subject to your separate consent or where explicitly permitted under applicable laws on email marketing, Valve can send you marketing messages about products and services offered to your email address through Valve. In such a case, we can also use your collected information to customize such marketing messages, as well as to gather information about whether you opened such messages and what links in their text you followed. You can withdraw your permission to receive marketing emails at any time by withdrawing the permission on the same page where you previously provided them or unsubscribe on the link provided in each marketing email. 3.8 Information Necessary to detect violations We collect certain data necessary for our detection, investigation and prevention of fraud, fraud and other violations of the SSA and applicable laws (Offences). This data is used only for the purposes of detection, investigation, prevention and, where applicable, acting on such Offences and stored only for the minimum amount of time required for this purpose. If the data indicates that an offence has occurred, we will further store the data for the establishment, exercise or defence of legal claims during the applicable statute of limitations or until a legal case related to it has been resolved. Please note that the specific data stored for this purpose may not be disclosed to you if the disclosure examines and prevents the mechanism by which we detect such violations. 4. How long our data stores We will only store your information as long as it is necessary to observe the purposes for which the information is collected and processed or — where applicable law provides for longer storage and retention period — for the storage and retention period required by law. After that, your personal data will be deleted, blocked, or anonymized, as provided by applicable law. In particular: If you terminate your Steam User account, your personal data will be marked for deletion, except to the degree legal requirements or other prevailing legal purposes dictate a longer storage. In some cases, personal data cannot be deleted entirely to ensure the consistency of the gaming experience or the Steam Community Market. For example, matches you've played that affect other players' match data and scores won't be deleted; rather, your connection to these games will be permanently anonymized. Please note that Valve is required to retain certain transactional data under statutory commercial and tax legislation for a period of up to ten (10) years. If you withdraw consent on which a processing of your personal data or of the personal data of your child is based, we will delete your personal data or the personal data of your child without unnecessary delay respectively to the that the collection and processing of the personal data is based on the revoked permission. If you exercise the right to object to processing processing your personal data, we will review your objection and delete your personal data that we have processed for the purpose on which you objected without unnecessary delay unless another legal basis exists for the processing and retention of this data or unless applicable law requires us to retain the data. 5. Whoever has access to data valve does not sell personal data. However, we can share or provide access to each of the categories of personal data we collect as needed for the following business purposes. 5.1 Valve and its subsidiaries may share your personal data with each other and use it to the degree necessary to achieve the purposes listed in section 2 above. In the event of a reorganization, sale or merger, we may transfer personal data to the relevant third party subject to applicable laws. 5.2 We may also share your personal data with our third-party service providers that provide customer service services in connection with goods, content and services distributed via Steam. Your personal data will be used in accordance with this Privacy Policy and only as far as it is necessary to perform customer service services. 5.3 In accordance with Internet standards, we may also share certain information (including your IP address and identifying Steam Content you want to access) with our third-party network providers that provide content delivery network services and game server services in connection with Steam. Our content delivery network providers set the delivery of digital content you requested, e.g. when using Steam, by using a system of distributed servers that deliver the content to you based on your geographic location. 5.4 Google Analytics Our website uses Google Analytics, a web analysis service provided by Google, Inc. (Google). Google Analytics uses cookies to help the website operators analyze how visitors use the site. The information generated by the cookie on the use of the visitors' website will generally be transmitted and stored by Google on servers in the United States. On this site, IP anonymization is enabled. The IP addresses of users visiting Steam will be shortened. Only in exceptional cases will a full IP address be transferred to a Google server in the United States and shortened there. On behalf of the website operator, Google will use this information with the aim of evaluating the website for its users, to essence on website activity reports, and to provide other services related to website activity and Internet use for website operators. Google will not associate the IP address transmitted in the context of Google Analytics with any other data held by Google. You can refuse cookies using by selecting the appropriate settings on your browser. Note, however, that in this case, you may not have the full functionality of this 2017. You can learn more about how Google Analytics can access data in www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners. www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners. you can prevent Google's collection and processing of data about your use of the site, by downloading and installing the browser plug-in through the following link: . 5.5 We make certain data related to your Steam User Account available to other players and our partners through the Steamworks API. This information can be accessed by anyone by inquiring about your Steam ID. At least, the public persona name you chose to represent you on Steam and your Avatar photo is accessible this way, as well as whether you have received a ban for fraud in a multiplayer game. The accessibility of any additional information about you can be controlled by your Steam Community User Profile page; data that is publicly available on your profile page can be automatically accessed through the Steamworks API. In addition to the publicly available information, game developers and publishers have access to certain information from the Steamworks API directly regarding the users of the games they operate. This information includes if a minimum your ownership of the game in question. Depending on which Steamwork services are implemented in the game, it can also provide ranking information, your progress in the game, performances you've completed, your multiplayer game matchmaking information, in-game items, and other information needed to run the game and provide support for it. For more information about which Steamwork Services implemented a specific game, please review its store page. While we do not knowingly share Personally Identifying information about you through the Steamworks API such as your real name or your email address, any information you share about yourself on your public Steam profile can be accessed through the Steamworks API, including information that can make you identifiable. 5.6 The Steam community includes message boards, forums and/or chat areas where users can exchange ideas and communicate with each other. When posting a message to a board, forum, or chat area, please be aware that the information is being made publicly available online; therefore you do it at your own risk. If your personal data is placed on one of our community forums against your will, please use the reporting feature and the Steam Help website to request its removal. 5.7 Valve may allow you to link your Steam User Account to an account offered by a third party. If you consent to link the accounts, Valve can collect and combine information that allowed you to receive from a third party with information from your Steam User Account to the degree allowed by your consent at the time. If linking the accounts requires the transfer of information about your person from Valve to a third party, you will be informed about it before the take place and you will have the opportunity to give permission for linking and transferring your information. The third party's use of your information will to the third party's privacy policy, which we encourage you to review. 5.8 Valve may release personal data to comply with court orders or laws and regulations requiring us to disclose such information. 6. Your rights and control mechanisms The data protection laws of the European Economic Area, California, and other areas give their residents certain rights regarding their personal data. While other jurisdictions may provide fewer statutory rights, we make the tools designed to make such rights available to our customers worldwide. To allow you to exercise your data protection rights in a simple way, we provide a dedicated section on the Steam Support page (the Privacy Dashboard). This gives you access to your personal data, allows you to correct and delete it where necessary and to object to its use where you feel necessary. To access it, login to the Steam Support page at and select the menu items My Account -> data related to your Steam account. In most cases, you can access, manage, or delete personal data in the privacy dashboard, but you can also contact valve with questions or requests via the contact processes described in sections 8 and 10 below. As a resident of the European Economic Area, you have the following rights regarding your personal data: 6.1 Right of Access. You have the right to access your personal data that we have about you, i.e. the right to require free (i) information or your personal data is retained, (ii) access to and/or (iii) duplicates of the personal data retained. You can use the right to access your personal data through the privacy dashboard. If the request affects or manifests the rights and freedoms of others, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee (taking into account the administrative costs of providing the information or communication or taking the action requested) or refusing to act on the request. 6.2 Right to Correction. If we process your personal data, we will endeavor to ensure by implementing appropriate measures that your personal data is accurate and up to date for the purposes for which it was collected. If your personal data is inaccurate or incomplete, you can change the information you provided via the Privacy Dashboard. 6.3. Right to erase. You have the right to obtain the deletion of personal data concerning you if the reason we can collect it (see section 2. above) no longer exists or if there is another legal land for its deletion. For individual items of personal data please edit them through the Privacy Dashboard or request the deletion via the Steam Support page. You can also delete your Steam User Account via the request. Due to the removal of your Steam user account, you will lose access to Steam Services, including the Steam User Account, subscriptions, and game-related information linked to the Steam User Account and the to access other services for which you use the Steam User Account. We allow you to restore your Steam user account during a 30 (thirty) days grace period from the moment you request the deletion of your Steam user account. With this functionality, you can't lose your account by mistake, due to your loss of your account credentials or because of hacking. During the suspension period, we will be able to finalize financial and other activities you may have initiated before sending the Steam User Account Deletion Request. After the grace period, personal data associated with your account will be deleted subject to section 4. Above. In some cases, deleting your Steam User Account, and thus personal data deletion, is complicated. Namely, if your account has a business relationship with Valve, such as because of your work for a game developer, you'll only be able to delete your Steam user account after you pass on this role to another user or disband the business relationship.
